

THE LEVANTINE CERAMICS PROJECT 2019 WORKSHOP 2: Ceramics of Anatolia through the ages, with a focus on Lycia and Cilicia

May 23rd-24th, 2019

Bilkent University, Ankara

The Levantine Ceramics Project (www.levantineceramics.org) and the Department of Archaeology at Bilkent University invite your participation in a workshop on the longue durée of ceramic production across Anatolia, with special attention to the regions of Lycia and Cilicia, to be held Thursday, May 23rd – Friday, May 24th, 2019. In this workshop our goal is to continue building up the site's data set, begun at the Keramos-LCP workshop held in May 2018 in Izmir, which focused on ceramic wares of Turkey from the Archaic to the Roman eras. For the program of that workshop and a summary of the presentations, go here: <https://workshops.levantineceramics.org/workshops-2018/>

For this workshop, we are not asking for traditional papers, but rather presentations on data submitted to the LCP in advance of the workshop. Submissions may focus on ceramic wares/ware families, vessels, kiln/workshop sites, and/or archaeometric studies. You may submit as much information as you like, and you may give more than one presentation. We ask that you submit your data by March 30th, 2019.

The LCP is a collaborative venture of archaeologists working on pottery dating from Neolithic through Ottoman times throughout the Levant. It is open access; anybody may consult the information on it. Contributors may submit data that is already published or newly discovered, specify levels of privacy for their submissions from completely private to fully public, and edit their own submitted information at any time. Note that a scholarly citation can be generated for each page on the LCP, making all entries digital publications, e.g., Kozal, Ekin; Amuq-Cilician Painted Ware (Sirkeli Höyük), The Levantine Ceramics Project, accessed on 21 November 2018, <https://www.levantineceramics.org/wares/amuq-cilician-painted-ware-sirkeli-hoyuk>.
